HORTICULTURE BUILDING CELEBRATES WOODSTOCK

July 30th, 2019

Rhinebeck, NY - Professional landscapers, florists as well as amateur horticulturists will once again, bring their creativity to the Horticulture building using the "Woodstock" theme.

The Horticulture Building was built in 1995 and continues to present itself as one of the most well-traveled buildings on the fairgrounds. "This building is just one more thing that makes the Dutchess County Fair so special. With the continued support of the local landscapers, florists and hobbyist fairgoers are treated to the exceptional educational and stunning floral exhibits and displays.

Enter the building and your eyes will be treated to the attention-grabbing displays. You can meander through the building or sit and watch a Floral Design Show. Fairgoers can learn some basics in Floral Design, Stonewall Construction to Managing Crab Grass, just to name a few. A complete schedule can be found at dutchessfair.com.
